

Internship Business Planning / Project Management

Lufthansa Technik Maintenance International

Location: Frankfurt/Main, Germany

Starting ASAP, for 5-6 months

Lufthansa Technik Maintenance International (LTMI) is looking for you to join us as an intern (m/f) in our project management department in our headquarters in Frankfurt/Main.

You will be actively working within our different projects in the areas of market research, strategic product development as well as new business acquisition.

During the internship you will be based in our office in Frankfurt/Main. Depending on the project requirements you might also work on-site at our Customer's locations and target countries.

You will be fully integrated into our team, supporting the daily business while being responsible for your own individual tasks within our project, research and sales activities. By doing so, you will act as a full-fledged team member and will provide crucial support throughout all assignments.

The internship will offer you the possibility to gain in-depth and comprehensive insights into international project work, while enjoying a dynamic, fast-paced working environment. You can expect an interesting and multidisciplinary assignment in one of the leading MRO providers.

As part of our team, your main tasks will include the following:

- Determine market potentials and synergies
- Create draft business plans
- Evaluate current setup of potential partners (due diligence)
- Develop and maintain our data based system
- Organize and prepare our project meetings
- Perform other support functions in line with business requirements

Your profile:

- Enrollment at an university during the entire internship (mandatory)
- First work experiences throughout relevant internships (preferably in the aviation industry)
- Ability to quickly familiarize yourself with new subjects and areas
- Analytical and problem-solving oriented working methods
- Ability to work independently and under pressure with a high degree of accuracy and organization as well as to think "outside of the box"
- Good knowledge of the MS Office Pack (especially MS PowerPoint and MS Excel)
- Fluency in German and in English, previous international experience preferred but not required
- Readiness for domestic and foreign duty travel
